Ronald Reagan

Ronald Reagan was the 40th president of the United States of America. He was a very interesting man, very different than most other presidents! He was a movie star!

Reagan was born in the state of Illinois in 1911. He lived in many different towns because his dad was a traveling salesman. Ronald loved to play sports like football and swimming, he was also a very gifted actor. After college he became a radio announcer in Iowa until he got a job in Hollywood acting in movies! He starred in over fifty different movies!

When World War II began, Ronald Reagan was drafted into the army. As time went on he became more interested in politics and was the Governor of California for two terms. Then in 1980, he became the president of the United States. He was the oldest president in the United States history.

The Cold War was going on during Reagan's administration. This was a scary time because the United States and the Soviet Union (which is now Russia) each had an atomic bomb. Everyone was very worried that either side would drop the bomb and something devastating would happen. Ronald Reagan worked very hard to gain peace between the two countries during his time of presidency.

In 2004, when Ronald Reagan was ninety three years old, he passed away from pneumonia. He was a great man with many accomplishments.

Classifying Rocks

Have you ever moved a heavy rock in search of a slimy worm, or skipped a smooth rock across a lake? Rocks are all around us because Earth's crust is made of rocks. Rocks are different shapes, sizes, colors, and they are made of many different minerals. Scientists classify rocks based on characteristics like these. Rocks can also be classified by the way light is reflected off them. This is called luster. Rocks can have a glassy or metallic luster which looks shiny like gold and silver. Hardness is another way in which scientists classify rocks. Hardness refers to how easily the surface of a rock or mineral can be scratched. Hardness is judged on a scale of 1-10. The way in which rocks are formed is also an important way in which scientists classify rocks. Three main types of rocks can be formed: igneous, sedimentary, and metamorphic.

PERSONAL INFORMATION

As you get older you will be using more and more online programs. Many of these programs might require you to register and log in using a username and password. It is very important that you never share your passwords with anyone, even your best friend. The only exception to sharing your password would be for your parents and teachers to know your login information. These responsible adults have the right to know what you are doing at all times when you are on the internet!

Always protect your personal information when you are online or even just testing. Avoid using both your first name and last while interacting on the web. Using a nickname, initials or even just your first name is a great way to stay safe. You don't want to reveal too much information about yourself because there are online predators that could easily find you if you mention your address, phone number or what school you attend.

Most importantly, if you ever end up meeting someone "virtually", never agree to meet them face-to-face. You don't know who is really behind the computer screen. They could be pretending to be someone they are not.

Stay safe, learn lots and always be a responsible digital citizen!

- The only people who should know your passwords are your _____ parents _____ and _____ teachers _____.
- Fact or Fiction? There are online predators that pretend to be someone they are not.
- What are some examples of your personal information?
_____ phone number, address, school name _____.
- Jessie made a website for science class that displayed her first name, last name, grade and name of school. Is Jessie being a responsible digital citizen? Yes or No.
- _____ Responsible _____ adults have the right to know what you are doing at all times when you are on the internet.

African Elephants

African elephants are divided into two subspecies. One subspecies of elephants live in the savannah and the other subspecies live in the forest. Elephants are very bright animals and have one of the best memories. This is why you have probably heard the saying "an elephant never forgets."

Female elephants form close bonds with their families. These elephants live together in groups. A group of elephants is called a herd and is usually led by the oldest female. Sometimes a herd of elephants contains as many as 100 elephants. When a baby elephant is born, the calf is raised and protected by the entire group. Male elephants leave the group around the age of 13 years old. Elephants eat roots, grasses, fruit and bark.

Penguins

Penguins are carnivores. They eat fish, squid, crabs and other seafood they catch while swimming. Most penguin species live together in large groups for protection. A group of penguins is called a colony and a colony of penguins can range from 200 to a thousand. Penguins are very intelligent animals.

Adult female penguins lay one or two eggs at a time. When she is done laying her eggs, she goes to gather food while the male penguin watches over the nest. The mother penguin may be gone for weeks in search for food. When she returns, the male penguin then leaves to retrieve food while the female stays with the nest. When the baby penguin gets old enough to be left alone, both parents leave the baby to gather food.
